

Haryana Cong tussle premieres in pink on US shores :

Deepender Hooda turns up by Rahul Gandhi's side

PATNA:CONGRESS DARPAN

Amid continuing infighting in the Haryana Congress, which is set to intensify in the run-up to 2024 Lok Sabha and state Assembly elections, Hoodas are leaving no stone unturned to retain supremacy and make this clear to their detractors within the party unit.

To send out such a message to their party rivals, the Hooda camp went out of its way last week – to the United States, where Deepender Hooda was spotted following the trail of top party leader Rahul Gandhi there. The 45-year-old four-time Congress MP, Deepender is the son of Bhupinder Hooda, the Leader of the Opposition (LoP) and ex-chief minister, who is positioning himself to emerge as the party's face in the next year's Assembly polls.

Deepender tweeted the pictures in which he is making Rahul wear the pink turban. (Twitter/@DeependerSHooda) To mark his presence at a Rahul Gandhi event involving the Indian diaspora in New York, Deepender even managed to make Rahul wear a turban, that too a pink one – the colour-coded headgear associated with Hoodas, who ask their supporters to wear pink turbans at their events and shows.

Deepender tweeted the pictures in which he is making Rahul wear the pink turban. Rahul addressed a gathering at Jacob Javits Center in New York on June 4, the last event during his three-city, six-day US-tour. Ahead of Rahul's interaction with the Indian diaspora, Deepender tweeted several pictures and videos, showing preparations involving him for the former's event.

Deepender also tweeted his photo with Rahul from Roosevelt House in New York. A couple of days earlier, he attended a gathering of the NRIs in New Jersey to urge them to participate in Rahul's New York event.

In April 2015, various state units of the Congress held a rally in New Delhi to mark Rahul's return after his 56-day-long break. At that time, Bhupinder Hooda was facing stiff competition in the one-upmanship game from the then Haryana Congress president Ashok Tanwar, then LoP Kiran Choudhry and Captain Ajay Singh Yadav.

Inauguration ceremony of "Shakti" scheme where women travel freely in government buses across the state

Live broadcast of the inauguration ceremony of "Shakti" scheme where women and students travel free in government buses across the state.

The "Shakti" scheme, which provides free travel in government buses to women and students across the state, was launched today.

The Congress government has taken a bold step towards women's empowerment, from today women and students can travel for free in government buses by showing necessary documents. As promised, the Shakti project has been implemented and the Congress is committed to the development of women.

Our aim is to give the people's guarantees of the Congress party step by step, and we will take appropriate measures for that. He promised that people should not have any doubts about this.

Siddaramaiah

When we announced free travel facility for women, criticism, hypocrisy were expressed by people who are not working hard and enjoying all kinds of facilities in the society. Without bothering about anything, today we implemented Shakti Yojana. After the implementation of our project, a mother saluted the bus at Dharwad bus stand and took a free journey happily.

It's more important than how much grants we spend on who we spend. At this moment, even after hundreds of criticism, it has made me further stronger towards my goal not to fall down.

This picture will be remembered for a long time along with the satisfaction of the project.
